DESIGN RATIONALE

- The equipment chosen will improve the existing play area substantially and the over-riding criteria we have based our design on is that “All children of all abilities have the right to play. Play spaces are not for specific groups of children but provide opportunities for all children to play together. Children of all abilities disabled or non-disabled, and those of differing levels of confidence should be able to play in spaces where they and their friends and families can all join in and play in the way they like”.
- Play value and activity help in child development and play spaces need to be fun and engaging. Within a design the equipment needs to be compelling, challenging and encourage the child's involvement to have true play value.
- Hags UK recognise that playing is one of the most important ways that children stay active, learn, make friends, and socialise. Playing is fundamental to children's development and well-being, and to a happy childhood and as a result our designs are very much influenced by this rationale.

DESIGN RATIONALE

- The design proposed has created such a play area by Improving the already existing area and providing the community with a play area that has a new lease of life
 - To encourage greater use and community togetherness by not only renewing with challenging and fun equipment but creating an open space that allows natural play and social interaction on the remaining grassed areas
 - Play space designed and created is fun and full of opportunities to play in a variety of ways from sliding, climbing the vertical wall or climbing net, scrambling up the twisted ramp, rocking on the springer to swinging on the swings.
 - Design layout allows children to run freely in space increasing the play area's overall accessibility to many children in a safe environment
 - The new design has increased play activity within the area by introducing new pieces of play equipment offering new challenges and new ways to play. The Area is now a fun place to meet and play. Imaginative adventures on the Fogus or for younger ones the Faltow, group play on the Roty roundabout, exhilaration of speeding down various slides and poles to socialising on the swings.

KEY CRITERIA OF MAYFIELD RECREATION ASSOCIATION

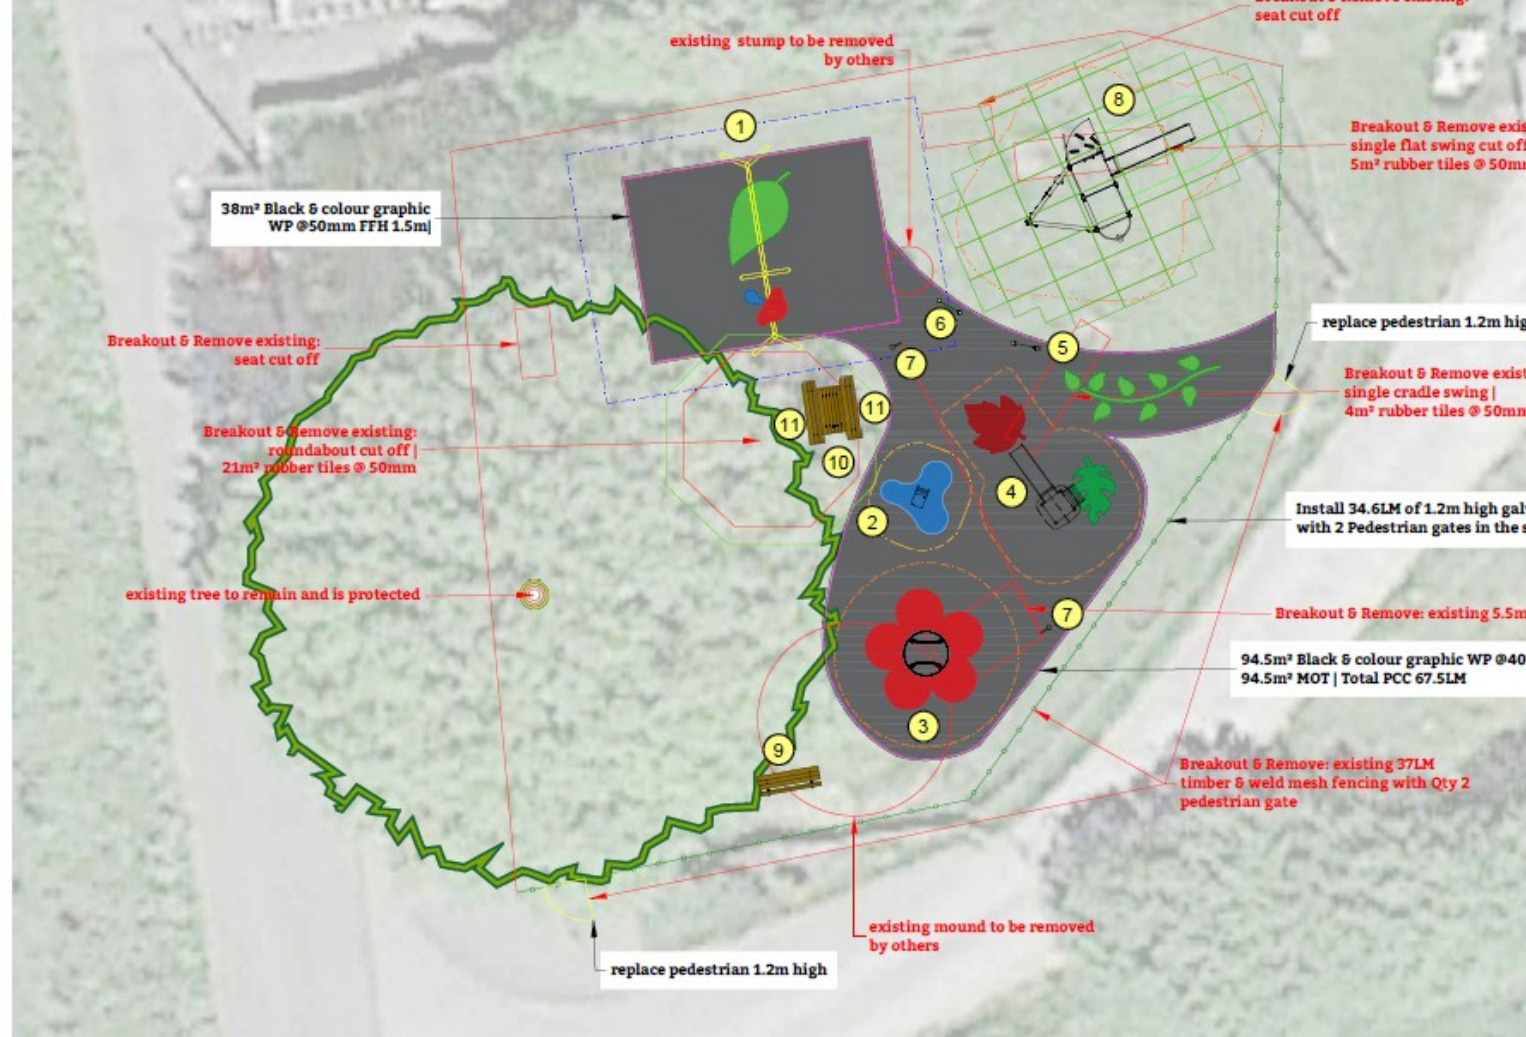

- The new toddler area is to be on black wet pour with coloured patterns and the junior items can be on the grass with grass matting but be careful not to be close to the tree.
- The Association are after traditional items such as swings, multi units, roundabouts, springers, balance trails. The aim is to create an exciting and stimulating play space because currently the equipment is dated. Inclusivity is important so inclusive equipment such as mirage swing seat and inclusive Roty roundabout would be beneficial.
- The Association are happy with a mix of timber and steel – they prefer the HAGS engineered timber for its durability and non-splitting.

•This play tower is ideal for early years. It's great for social interaction as children can climb, slide and relax in the hut. With a little panel under the slide, it offers another play feature so children can pretend it's a shop with a shelter. With all these play elements children are inspired to pretend play.

SEATING

The provision of adequate furnishing for all play areas is an important consideration. Adults can relax while their children can play and socialise un-interrupted. The Ekeby range is a simple yet stylish range of furniture that is both eye catching and durable. It is ideal for landscaped or rural areas.
